

Friends:

I normally stay out of primaries, but I felt in this case that I needed to make an exception for my good friend, Dan Gelber, who is a candidate for Attorney General. If you don't know Dan you ought to. He has been a true leader in the Legislature, both in the Florida House when he was the Democratic Leader and now in the Florida Senate.

Dan often says, "I didn't run for office to get elected, I ran to do something." That is exactly my philosophy and why I stand with him today in his campaign to serve as Florida's next Attorney General. Since I first met Dan, he has been fighting for schools, the elderly, the environment, our Constitution, and for the principles and values we share.

It is no surprise Dan has been so effective. He has the background and real life experiences we need in our next Attorney General. Dan knows how to fight against public corruption and protect consumers because he was a federal prosecutor for nearly a decade. Through his work on domestic security measures as Chief Counsel for the US Senate's investigations committee, Dan has the skills and tools we need to keep our children and seniors safe.

It is not only Dan's courtroom and legal experience that makes him the best choice for Attorney General, but it is also Dan's commitment to service. One of the most rewarding experiences for Dan has been his more than twenty years of volunteer work with the Big Brothers program. You know Dan has deep appreciation for this program because next month he will be the Best Man at the wedding of his "Little Brother" Travis, whom he has mentored for 20 years.

This guy is really special and I'm proud to call Dan my friend. I hope you can join me in Dan's journey to be Florida's next Attorney General. We need to make sure that Alex Sink has the right person sitting next to her on the Florida Cabinet. Check him out at www.dangelber.com <<http://www.dangelber.com>> .
